Ms. Tillie Clark of Sunset Rd. sent me a sympathy card when my mother passed simply because she grew up in the same town (Skellytown, TX) that my mother was born in. She doesn't know me or my family, this was done out of kindness. It touched me more than she will ever know. Please give her a rose in the paper with deep appreciation from me & my family. Wish there were more people like her in this world.

WINSLOW LIBRARY NEWS

We would like you to know about some upcoming events at the library.

The summer reading program is for Grades K-4 from June 16-July 24 and is led by Sherry from the Washing County Library System/ The group will meet at 10 am on Thursdays June 19 and 26 and July 3, 10, 17 and 24. There is no fee or reservation required.

During September we are planning a genealogy event with local experts, including Jo Ann Kyle. They will answer questions and provide information on locating lost family members and friends. The collection of library holdings on genealogy will be on display, Look for time and date in next issue of Within Winslow.

Also in September a book discussion group is planned. The first book will be The Beautiful Mystery by Louise Penny who was named one of the best crime writers by the New York Times. This novel is about a monastery hidden deep in the wilderness of Quebec where monks live in peace and prayer. When the choir director is murdered, Chief Inspector Gamache discovers unrest under the silence. Before finding the killer, Gamache must consider the divide between the divine and the human. Book selections will be available on hold at the library ahead of time. The first gathering to read and discuss will be September 16 at 1pm for an hour and the book will be available August 19. Join us and discover if you like Louise Penny

Meet the People of Winslow

By Jean Cosgrove

One advantage of working at the Winslow Library is that you hear community news. Late fall I heard that Mack and Debbie Innis were moving back to Winslow. They moved into Barbara Ashbaugh's house during December 2013. Debbie Innis is working at Washington Regional Medical Center and Mack is retired and volunteering at the Winslow Museum.

Mack is uniquely qualified to help do a census of photos since the Innis's ancestors moved here in 1876 from LeMaras, Iowa. Mack's father, Hall Innis, was one of five children born to John Lee and Emmaline McClendon Innis. They lived in a cabin atop McClendon Hill on land that now has houses on "Pine Drive". The last Innis in Winslow was Mack's uncle, John Innis, who died about 1980 and is buried in Coil Cemetery along with the other family members. Mack and Debbie will join them someday but we hope no time soon. Winslow Welcomes You Home!

Edwin Garland Campbell Bradberry
August 5, 1931 - June 16, 2014

Edwin Garland Campbell Bradberry, 82, of Fayetteville, also known as "Brad" to many of his friends, passed away on June 16 at his home in Fayetteville. He was born on August 5, 1931 in Crossett, Arkansas and grew up in nearby Monticello. He was a devoted resident of Fayetteville, Arkansas and a part-time resident of Manhattan and Fire Island, New York.

Brad married Karlee Ruth Bown on September 2, 1952 in Houston, Texas where they were both students at Rice University. Brad and Karlee enjoyed over sixty years of marriage and raised five children together. He is survived by his wife Karlee, his five children and their spouses Robert (Debbie) Bradberry of Brentwood, Arkansas, Rebecca (Robert) Moody of Birmingham, Alabama, Karolyn (Frederick) Woolverton of Fayetteville, Arkansas, William (Shirley) Bradberry of Colorado Springs, Colorado and John (Hope) Bradberry of Fayetteville, Arkansas, his sister Elizabeth Brasher of Hot Springs, Arkansas, twelve grandchildren, and two great-grandchildren. The family would also like to express their love and gratitude to Aaron Binkley for his devoted care and support.

During his long and remarkably productive life, he was Vice Chairman of the UAMS Foundation Fund Board; Charter Member of the Northwest Arkansas Business Council; Charter Member of the Northwest Arkansas Regional Airport Authority; Vice Chairman of the Board of Lion Oil Company for 10 years; Charter Member of the Sam Walton College of Business Advisory Board; member of the Advisory Board of the University of Arkansas; member of the Advisory Board of the Jones Eye Institute; member of the New York City and Fayetteville, Arkansas Advisory Board of The Village Institute for Psychotherapy; President and CEO of B&B Resources, Inc. for 45 years; Founder, President and CEO of Continental Ozark, Inc. for 17 years; and numerous other Executive and Board positions.

In addition, he was a generous philanthropist who contributed to many diverse charitable causes. He endowed a chair at the University of Arkansas; donated the Peace Fountain to the City of Fayetteville; donated sculptures to the Fayetteville Library and to Washington Regional Hospital; endowed scholarships at the University of Arkansas in Fayetteville; donated the Bradberry amphitheater to The Walton Arts Center; founded the Bradberry Family Foundation that received regional honors; was a Founding Member of the Manhattan Marymount Writing Center (now Hunter College of the City of New York); and gave generously to numerous and local charities throughout his business career and years of retirement. Due to his recent illness, he was unable to attend the planned dedication on June 13th of his gift of ROSA (Robotized Stereotactic Assistant), state of the art surgical equipment for the Center for Robotic Neurosurgery at UAMS Medical Center.

To his family, he was a devoted husband, father, grandfather and great-grandfather and a true leader, always available to his children and grandchildren with wisdom, guidance and counsel. His advice and counsel were indispensable; his love of his wife and children were unsurpassed, and both his love and extraordinary stewardship of the family will be deeply missed.

Funeral service will be held 12:00 pm Thursday June 19, 2014 at St. Paul's Episcopal Church in Fayetteville under the direction of Moore's Chapel in Fayetteville. In lieu of flowers, donations may be made to St. Paul's Episcopal Church, P.O. Box 1190 Fayetteville, Arkansas 72702 or Circle of Life Hospice, 901 Jones Road, Springdale, Arkansas 72762.

Roadside Souvenir Shop Opens

Steve and Michele Winkler are opening the Roadside Souvenir shop at 104 N. Centennial in West Fork beginning June 28, 2014. It offers T-shirts, totes, key chains and more.

In addition to the souvenirs we would like to feature the creative works of local artisans, and sell them on consignment. Space is available in any of our showrooms. We would like to offer all types of pieces - painting, mixed medium, pottery, sculpture, fabric works, baskets, jewelry and more.

The shop is easily spotted with its cheerful green, pink, yellow and orange trim. If local artists are interested in having their work considered, call 479-839-3388.

Everyone is invited to come check us out and have a chat, opening Saturday June 28, 1 PM – 5 PM. Visit us on facebook too: Roadside Souvenirs.

ROSES & THISTLES

THISTLES

Huge Thistles to the person or persons who are stealing water from Winslow Community Meals. Go pay your bill or buy it like everyone else has to do.

Community Meals exists to help provide meals for those who cannot cook for themselves and as a courtesy to the rest of the community who would like a good nourishing noon time meal. It is a C(3) organization and does not make a profit. Every drop of water you steal is a penny that could be used to buy food for these meals.

Another thing to think about is that this is theft and if caught you will be punished. Is the water you steal worth jail time to you?

Camping' On THz' Brazos

While we were playing at our dream of traveling the world by wagon and thinking to move to the Ozarks as an intermediate step, I made an 18" X 4' paper sign for the living room wall.

*No wonder our neighbors don't understand us.
We're hillbillies!*

One summer day we took the Volkswagen into the countryside and entered a new freeway under construction; not yet open. We pulled off the slab and parked the car partially concealed at the edge of the Brazos River.

The area was still country, wilderness in the modern usage of the word. Real American wilderness is the way things were west of the Mississippi in the 1700's. The national parks aren't wilderness. Consider the traffic that pours through them.

The highway was awaiting construction of a bridge, so we saw and heard no one through the afternoon as we hunted muscles and played with the children along the sandy beach below the river bank, the water level being low.

We made our campsite around a bend and out of sight of where the highway terminated. Under a starlit sky, we'd had dinner, the children were sleeping, the fire had died to embers, and we were both drifting off.

Then a racket like all the banshees of hell screeching at once!

I came off my side of the blanket like a startled cat, and when I landed I grabbed my hat. "I'll be right back!"

I strode toward the cacophony, driven, without a plan. An experienced city guy and no fool, I was aware I might be heading for trouble. That wasn't stopping me.

But I didn't look like a city guy. Remember, these were the days of the supposed oil-crisis. These were the times of the back-to-the-land-movement. These were the hippy days, only a few years after Woodstock influenced the youth of the nation. We had a little spoof on ourselves back then, called costumín'.

Costumin' referred to the hippy uniform, which had a lot of variation as well as similarities. I'd been known to hurry after a shapely Houston girl in tight jeans with beautiful hair bouncing against a pretty derriere, only to discover she had a beard. Yuck!

Boy Scouts wear costumes, house painters do, waitresses, firemen, cops, airplane pilots, politicians.

I was costumín' Gypsy-Nomad.

My black jeans had been split nearly to the knees and had red triangles sewn in so they'd fit over my boots. We called 'em flairs. The jeans, not the boots.

I've long predicted that attractive fashion would return, and I've seen it a couple of times on TV, but it doesn't seem to have gotten popular like today's ugly hip-hugger plumber-butt pants.

An open green brocaded vest from a thrift shop partly covered a blue shirt with puffy sleeves. I had a brown beard then, and wore a round, gold-plated two inch earring when men didn't do that. Around my neck was a pink bandana, and my black hat was the floppy big-brimmed sort you see pictures of organ grinders wearing—'cept this one had a hatband made of green shower balls.

I climbed the 10 foot bank below the racket. Two cars were parked on the opposite side of the pad from our car. A loud-speaker was blaring rock music.

Looming from the darkness, I commanded, "Turn it off!"

"What th!" objected a male voice?

"Do what he says," said a female voice.

I turned, lay on the ground looking at the sky and in the quiet, said: "Listen."

Far off a farm-dog barked.

Seconds passed. Then a quarter mile away an owl hooted. A cow lowed.

I slipped down the bank and returned to the campfire.

Fifteen minutes later, two car engines started and drove away. It was the highpoint in a lifetime of mostly-failed communications.

A Meander Through My Memories.

By Joann Klusmeyer <anniele33@gmail.com>

While tooling along in another direction, Winslow, Arkansas popped up on my screen. I enjoyed a moment of fond nostalgia while reading the last names... So many of them familiar.

I graduated from Mountainburg High School in the good old days of 1950. Got moved to Oklahoma on my job, but beautiful Arkansas is firmly imprinted on my memory. The consolidated school at Mountainburg brought so many students from Winslow during those years. After retiring, I began to write down some of those memories.

I have an 8 book series on Amazon set within my grandmother's memory. Series name is War Eagle River Valley with the first book being TWIXT THE ROAD AND THE RIVER. Seven others are on line, and there will be more to come. Some other of my books are set in Arkansas' neighbor to the west.

Within a month, I expect my new Webside, MY MOUNTAIN MEMORIES, will be on line and it will describe all eight books. My father was the Assembly of God preacher at a church out toward Locke, named Revis Hill.

Such a pleasurable moment! God be with you.

Welcome to Ozark Folkways!

For decades our mission has been to encourage and develop the art, crafts, and cultural heritage, development and traditions of the Arkansas Ozarks. We offer classes in local crafts, activities for children, and a gallery and retail space for artists and craftsmen of the Northwest Arkansas area.

Located in historic (and historically funky!) Winslow, Ozark Folkways is where the art of today meets the craft traditions of generations past; and music, food, fun and family reach across generations to bring people together.

Apart from the everyday offerings of art and crafts, we have a number of special events coming up over the next few months. There's bound to be something for you:

“The Environment and the Art”

July 14-18, 9:00 am – 12:00 noon
For kids 6-14 years old.

Learn about the great outdoors and create arts and crafts

(Very limited number of spots available.)

“Art Camp”

August 4-8, 9:00 am – 12:00 noon

Ms. Erin and Ms. Tracy come out of retirement!

On each of four days, a different local artist will show work and lead an activity for students.

Day five will be for an exhibition of the children's art, including a reception.

“Comedy Corner”

By David Gesn ©2014

Yes, it is July, and all of us are getting a little older. Yesterday, I knew I was getting older when I suddenly realized I couldn't remember my name. Good thing I ran into someone that knew me down at the grocery store. Talked to 'em fifteen minute – still don't know who the hec they were! Went down a one-way street going the wrong way, Cop stopped me and asked, "Did you not know that this is a one-way street?" I said, "Well, I wasn't going but one way". He knew me and suspected my sugar level was off and guided me home. "Oh, is this my house?" Hallelujah!

Went out on a date, afterwards we went to her house, and things got a tad intimate. A romantic evening was in sight, and then disaster struck. I could not remember her name and called her my "fantasy woman's" name. Big Mistake-Huge! Long walk home! Hallelujah! Walking along, I tried to remember why I was at some strange woman's house in the first place, and where did I leave my car? And, where the hec is my dog?

Well, thought I'd go down and slap my "fantasy girl's" boyfriend around a little bit and tell him if he doesn't pop the "big question" soon, I was going to steal his woman! About the time I got ready to go, I remember him saying he had been in some elite group in the military once upon a time, at least that's what I thought he said. Good way to get annihilated! Well, no one lives forever, but better ways to depart – Hallelujah!

An old friend and his wife dropped by on their way to Eureka Springs for their anniversary. He's from South Louisiana. He was conversing about old times, and how we once jumped out of airplanes. All the while he's talking, I'm trying to figure out what would have possessed me to jump out of a perfectly good flying airplane in the first place? Two big dummies, along with some other idiots, jumping in mid-air, falling 180 feet per second! The one thing worthwhile forgetting and this guy wants to go up and do it one last time. He is definitely out of his mind! I love flying, but staying on the inside seems a whole lot more exciting! Hallelujah! I'm not as adventurous as I once was, anymore. Some things I give an effort to, but not on a regular basis. Surviving seems to be a pretty good adventure in itself. Bull riding and sky-jumping is definitely out of the question! Attempting to stay somewhat sane, loving a fantasy woman-which has no logic to it at all, now that is an adventure! Wonder if she knows? Wonder if she cares? Makes absolutely no sense at all! Hallelujah! Why in the world can I not forget her? Where's my dog? Hallelujah!

Well I better sign off for now. July the Fourth is around the corner, and there's something I'm supposed to do, but I cannot remember what it is at the moment. I hope everyone has a great holiday this year! If – soon - you happen to see me walking around the forest looking like I'm lost – I may be. There will be a reason why I will be there, and thank God I wrote journals concerning the outing! Now though, it's time for "sleep-time". It takes me longer to fall asleep because I forget I can. Hallelujah!

The Cavern

By David Gesn © 2014

Why there are no bats in and around the cavern confuses me. There are no mosquitoes inside, yet spiders are plentiful, as are different species of other insects and salamanders. A huge soft-shell turtle sticks his head up with that long neck of his and perches on a rock nearby. Also the mystery continues as why snakes do not appear thru 'out the perimeter. Rattlers and copperheads are plentiful on the surface up above the ceiling. Honeybees are in and out, but wasps and yellow jackets are but a few at any given time.

The soil affect is of interest also. There is white sand, soft in texture and yellow sand and brown included of a coarse nature. Formations of soil content on the walls in the "Pond Room" are different in color, red brown, black, and a "line" of white, across the walls. Rushing water is present beneath the floor and is most obvious in the "Chair Room" next to the southeast wall in the same room, between and alongside the rock wall appears to be a coarse, black gravel and sand mixture.

One mural is of hieroglyphics of birds, what looks like canoes made of wood and possibly some type of leather, eagle and red-tailed hawk and turtle. Different shapes of figures, such as triangles and lines in different arrangements. Some lines are curved, some straight. Cat figures and what seems to be the wolf is also present. The snake is also represented, as is the deer or stag of some species and the bear.

In the "Mural Room", what I initially referred to as the "Mound Room", there is a reverence I cannot fully explain, nor comprehend. I do not know if the mounds are burial structures or some type of religious intent. None of us so-called explorers in the group ever bothered anything inside "The Cavern". We all have camped-out inside at different intervals. The temperature inside is constant and at night, sounds within the walls are quite interesting. Of the "group", two of us don't believe – as such – in ghosts, the remaining do. Now, though I do not believe in such things, there are things I have experienced and seen that I could not explain. The sounds I have heard may be due to air or gas filtering thru' the rock along with the pressure of air, then again ----! Within "The Cavern" I have not seen any sign of oil or the presence of natural gas, not to say there is none. On one wall is the presence of a picture of a dove in between the mounds.

At night sounds do filter thru'-out the cavern and sometimes it's rather hard to fall asleep! There is a distinct sound of "footsteps" and what sounds like -- well, almost like a chant in a distance. No, I can't explain it, but I am a non-believer,... maybe! Hallelujah!

Nothing seems to be scary or of any evilness. One of us in the group proclaimed to have seen some type of apparition, but hesitated in describing it, but was supposedly of a human-type figure! I was always under the impression that as a female or sow bear was raising her cubs, that she would run the male away. Well, approaching the entrance one fine day, lo' and behold some sixty yards away was a traveling family consisting of mama, papa and two cubs. I have viewed them all together in prior visits and they venture on past the area of concern. This must be their route of travel on a constant basis. Hallelujah!

We never marked the entrance on purpose, but yet we did, ... in a fashion, ... where we could supposedly find it at any given time. Getting to it was always the hard part, and after a few years the forest has a way of hiding its secrets! A man or woman could easily get lost or a tad confused. Nothing to see a cottonmouth, copperhead or rattler on the way and some are big whoppers! A lot of squirrels and some deer always out and about, cubs, out on a tromp with mamma playing here and there!

I cannot dwell enough on the concept of safety thru' out this area, but it's merely common sense.

Hallelujah! (Hidden wells also exist...)

Original Blue Dawn ... It's Not Just For Dishes Anymore

SAVING WILDLIFE

Ever wonder why Dawn Dishwashing Liquid is the wildlife cleaner of choice after an oil spill? According to the International Bird Rescue Research Center, Dawn effectively removes grease but does not cause harm to the skin of the birds. It's also biodegradable and contains no phosphates.

BUBBLES

According to Bubbles.org, Dawn dishwashing liquid makes great homemade bubbles. Here is the Giant Bubble Recipe used in bubble makers at many children's museums: 1/2 cup Ultra Dawn 1/2 gallon warm water 1 tablespoon glycerin (available at any drug store) OR White Karo syrup works too! Stir gently. Skim the foam off the top of the solution (too much foam breaks down the bubbles). Dip bubble wand and get ready for some good, clean fun!

GREASY HAIR PROBLEMS

Kids get into the darnedest things! Like Vaseline and baby oil rubbed into their hair! Dawn is mild enough to use on their hair and strong enough to remove the most stubborn grease.

HAIR PRODUCT BUILDUP

Once a month use original Dawn as you would shampoo. It will remove excess oil from your hair and scalp and strip away any build-up of styling products without any damage. Perform this once a month and you won't have to buy expensive salon products that do the same thing.

MANICURE SECRET

Soak fingers in full-strength blue Dawn. It makes the cuticles soft and easy to work with. And it removes the natural oil from the fingernails, which allows the polish to adhere very well.

REPEL HOUSEPLANT INSECTS

A safe, effective way to repel insects from your houseplants, including aphids, spider mites and mealy bugs. Put a drop of Dawn Dishwashing Liquid in a spray bottle, fill the rest of the bottle with water, shake well, and mist your household plants with the soapy water.

GOD'S ACCURACY

God's accuracy may be observed in the hatching of eggs.

For example:

the eggs of the potato bug hatch in 7 days;

*those of the canary in 14 days;

*those of the barnyard hen in 21 days;

*the eggs of ducks and geese hatch in 28 days;

*those of the mallard in 35 days;

*the eggs of the parrot and the ostrich hatch in 42 days.

(Notice, they are all divisible by seven, the number of days in a week!)

God's wisdom is seen in the making of an elephant..

The four legs of this great beast all bend forward in the same direction.

No other quadruped is so made. God planned that this animal would have a huge body, too large to live on two legs. For this reason He gave it four fulcrums so that it can rise from the ground easily.

The horse rises from the ground on its two front legs first. A cow rises from the ground with its two hind legs first. How wise the Lord is in all His works of creation!

God's wisdom is revealed in His arrangement of sections and segments, as well as in the number of grains.

Each watermelon has an even number of strips on the rind.

Each orange has an even number of segments.

Each ear of corn has an even number of rows.

Each stalk of wheat has an even number of grains.

Every bunch of bananas has on its lowest row an even number of bananas, and each row decreases by one, so that one row has an even number and the next row an odd number.

The waves of the sea roll in on shore twenty-six to the minute in all kinds of weather.

All grains are found in even numbers on the stalks, and the Lord specified thirty fold, sixty fold, and a hundredfold - all even numbers.

God has caused the flowers to blossom at certain specified times during the day, so that Linnaeus, the great botanist, once said that if he had a conservatory containing the right kind of soil, moisture and temperature, he could tell the time of day or night by the flowers that were open and those that were closed!

Thus the Lord in His wonderful grace can arrange the life that is entrusted to His care in such a way that it will carry out His purposes and plans, and will be fragrant with His presence.

Only the God-planned safe life is successful. Only the life given over to the care of the Lord is fulfilled.

I HOPE YOU FIND THIS AS FASCINATING AS I DID .. "WOW"!
